Pisces

- 1904 259. The Great Cretaceous Fish Portheus molossus Cope. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xx, Art. xxxi, Oct. 15, 1904, pp. 377-381. Pal. 146
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Reptilia, Classification of

- 1903 226. On the Primary Division of the Reptilia into two Sub-Classes, Synapsida and Diapsida. [Presented to the N. Y. Acad. of Sciences, Sec. of Biology, Feb. 9, 1903.] Science, N. S., Vol. xvii, No. 424, Feb. 13, 1903, pp. 275-276. Pal. 124
- 1904 238. The Reptilian Subclasses Diapsida and Synapsida and the Early History of the Diaptosauria. Mem. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. i, Pt. viii, Nov. 1903, pp. 451-507. Abstr. Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxviii, No. 446, Feb., 1904, pp. 93-115. Pal. 130
- 1905 265. The American Palæontological Society Section A—Vertebrata [Discussion of the Phylogeny and Classification of the Reptilia]. Science, N. S., Vol. xxi, No. 530, Feb. 24, 1905, pp. 294-296. Pal. 153
- 1905 273. The Classification of the Reptilia. [Read before N. Y. Acad. Sci., Jan. 11, 1904.] Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xvi, No. 7, Aug. 2, 1905, pp. 302-303. Pal. 159

Reptilia, Osteology of

- 1900 178. Intercentra and Hypapophyses in the Cervical Region of Mosasaurs, Lizards and Spheonodon. Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxiv, No. 397, Jan., 1900, pp. 1-7. Abstr. Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xii, No. 15, June 2, 1900, p. 680. Pal. 95
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Upper Cretaceous Reptilia

- 1902 217. On Vertebrata of the Mid-Cretaceous of the North West Territory. 1. Distinctive Characters of the Mid-Cretaceous Fauna, by Henry Fairfield Osborn. 2. New Genera and Species from the Belly River Series (Mid-Cretaceous) by Lawrence M. Lambe. Contributions to Canadian Palæontology, Vol. iii (4to), Pt. ii, Ottawa, Sept., 1902, pp. 1-81, pll. i-xxi. Pal. 118
- 1902 218. Recent Zoopaleontology. New Vertebrates of the Mid-Cretaceous. Science, N. S., Vol. xvi, No. 408, Oct. 24, 1902, pp. 673-676. Pal. 119
- 1903 228. Recent Zoopaleontology. Age of the Typical Judith River Beds. Science, N. S., Vol. xvii, No. 426, Feb. 27, 1903, pp. 356-357. Pal. 126
- 1903 229. On the Age of the Belly River Series or Formation in Canada. The Ottawa Naturalist, Vol. xvi, No. 11, Feb., 1903, pp. 227-228. Pal. 127
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Pelycosauria

- 1907 297. A Mounted Skeleton of Naosaurus, a Pelycosaur from the Permian of Texas. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xxiii, Art. xiv, Mar. 30, 1907, pp. 265-270. Pal. 175

Crocodilia

- 1904 256. Teleorhinus browni—A Teleosaur in the Fort Benton. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xx, Art. xxi, July 1, 1904, pp. 239-240. Pal. 143
See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Ichthyosauria

- 1905 262. Fossil Wonders of the West, Ichthyosaurs, The Evolution of Fitness in Ichthyosaurs. The Century Magazine, Vol. lxix, No. 3, January, 1905, pp. 414-424. Pal. 149
See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

DINOSAURIA, Origin of

- 1900 189. Reconsideration of the Evidence for a Common Dinosaur-Avian Stem in the Permian. Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxiv, No. 406, Oct., 1900, pp. 777-799. Pal. 98

Sauropoda, Characters and Habits of

- 1898 150. Additional Characters of the Great Herbivorous Dinosaur Camarasaurus. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. x, Art. xii, June 4, 1898, pp. 219-233. Pal. 74
1898 157. On Some Additional Characters of Diplodocus. Abstr. Science, N. S., Vol. viii, No. 207, Dec. 16, 1898, p. 880. Pal. 80
1899 162. On Some Additional Characters of Diplodocus. [Read before N. Y. Acad. Sci., Nov. 14, 1898.] Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xi, No. 22, Jan. 18, 1899, p. 487. Science, N. S., Vol. ix, No. 218, Mar. 3, 1899, pp. 315-316. Pal. 82
1899 174. A Skeleton of Diplodocus. Mem. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. i, Pt. v, Oct. 25, 1899, pp. 191-214, pll. xxiv-xxviii. Abstr. A Skeleton of Diplodocus Recently Mounted in the American Museum. Science, N. S., Vol. x, No. 259, Dec. 15, 1899, pp. 870-874. Pal. 91
1899 175. Fore and Hind Limbs of Carnivorous and Herbivorous Dinosaurs from the Jurassic of Wyoming. Dinosaur Contributions No. 3. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xii, Art. xi, Oct. 30, 1899, pp. 161-172. Pal. 92
1901 199. Fore and Hind Limbs of Sauropoda from the Bone Cabin Quarry. [With Walter Granger.] Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xiv, Art. xiii, July 9, 1901, pp. 199-208. Pal. 105
1901 204. [Review of J. B. Hatcher's memoir on Diplodocus Marsh in Mem. Carnegie Mus., Vol. I.] Science, N. S., Vol. xiv, No. 353, Oct. 4, 1901, pp. 531-532. Pal. 109
1904 248. Recent Zoopaleontology. The Sauropoda. Science, N. S., Vol. xix, No. 476, Feb. 12, 1904, pp. 271-272. Pal. 138
1904 255. Manus, Sacrum, and Caudals of Sauropoda. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xx, Art. xiv, May 28, 1904, pp. 181-190. Pal. 142

- 1905 275. Skull and Skeleton of the Sauropodous Dinosaurs, Morosaurus and Brontosaurus. Science, N. S., Vol. xxii, No. 560, Sept. 22, 1905, pp. 374-376. Pal. 161
- 1906 280. The Skeleton of Brontosaurus and Skull of Morosaurus. Nature, Vol. 73, No. 1890, Jan. 18, 1906, pp. 282-284. Pal. 165
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Theropoda, Carnivorous Dinosaurs

- 1903 234. Ornitholestes hermanni, a New Compsognathoid Dinosaur from the Upper Jurassic. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xix, Art. xii, July 23, 1903, pp. 459-464. Pal. 128
- 1903 241. The Skull of Creosaurus. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xix, Art. xxxi, Dec. 24, 1903, pp. 697-701. Pal. 133
- 1905 276. Tyrannosaurus and Other Cretaceous Carnivorous Dinosaurs. Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xxi, Art. xiv, Oct. 4, 1905, pp. 259-265. Pal. 162
- 1906 284. Tyrannosaurus, Upper Cretaceous Carnivorous Dinosaur. (Second Communication.) Bull. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. xxii, Art. xvi, July 30, 1906, pp. 281-296. Editorial abstr. Nature, Vol. 74, No. 1921, Aug. 23, 1906, p. 416. Pal. 168
- 1912 380. Crania of Tyrannosaurus and Allosaurus. (Tyrannosaurus Contributions No. 3.) Mem. Amer. Mus. of Natural Hist., N. S., Vol. i, Pt. i, June, 1912, pp. 1-30, Pl. i-iv, figs. 1-27. Pal. 197
- 1913 392. Tyrannosaurus, Restoration and Model of the Skeleton. Bull. Amer. Mus. Natural Hist., Vol. xxxii, Art. iv, Apr. 11, 1913, pp. 91-92, pll. iv-vi. Pal. 200
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Iguanodontia

- 1909 330. The Epidermis of an Iguanodont Dinosaur. Science, N. S., Vol. xxix, No. 750, May 14, 1909, pp. 793-795. Pal. 183
- 1909 334. The Upper Cretaceous Iguanodont Dinosaurs. Nature, Vol. 81, No. 2075, Aug. 5, 1909, pp. 160-162. Pal. 185
- 1911 350. A Dinosaur Mummy. Amer. Mus. Journal, Vol. xi, No. 1, Jan., 1911, pp. 7-11. Pal. 192
- 1912 381. Integument of the Iguanodont Dinosaur Trachodon. Mem. Amer. Mus. of Natural Hist., N. S., Vol. i, Pt. ii, June, 1912, pp. 33-54, Pl. v-x, figs. 1-13. Pal. 198
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Mosasauria

- 1899 168. [Abstr.] [Upon the Structure of Tylosaurus dyspelor.] [Read before N. Y. Acad. Sci., Mar. 8, 1899.] Science, N. S., Vol. ix, No. 235, June 30, 1899, p. 913. Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xii, No. 15, June 2, 1900, p. 660. Pal. 87
- 1899 173. A Complete Mosasaur Skeleton, Osseous and Cartilaginous. Mem. Amer. Mus. Nat. Hist., Vol. i, Pt. iv, Oct. 25, 1899, pp. 167-189, pll. xxi-xxiii. Abstr. Science, N. S., Vol. x, No. 260, Dec. 22, 1899, pp. 919-925. Pal. 90
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

MAMMALIA

Principles of Palæontology of Mammalia

- 1893 82. Rise of the Mammalia in North America. [Vice-Presidential Address Before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Section of Zoölogy, Madison, Wis., Aug. 17, 1893.] Abstr. Nature, Vol. 48, No. 1246, Sept. 14, 1893, p. 462. Amer. Journ. Sci., 3d Ser., Vol. xlv, No. 275, Nov., and No. 276, Dec., 1893, pp. 379-392, 448-466, pll. v-x. Proc. Amer. Assoc. Adv. Science, Vol. 42, 1894, pp. 189-227 (meeting Aug., 1893, Madison, Wis.). Studies from the Biol. Laboratories of Columbia College, Vol. i, No. 2, 1893, pp. 61-103. Pal. 43
- 1905 267. Ten Years' Progress in the Mammalian Palæontology of North America. Comptes rendus du 6me Congrès intern. de Zoologie, Session de Berne, 1904, May 25, 1905, pp. 86-113, pll. i-xv. American Geologist, Vol. xxxvi, No. 4, Oct., 1905, pp. 199-229. Pal. 154
- 1910 346. THE AGE OF MAMMALS IN EUROPE, ASIA AND NORTH AMERICA. 8vo, The Macmillan Company, New York, Oct. 25, 1910, pp. 635. German Edition, Dr. W. O. Dietrich, editor, in press. Pal. 189.

Classification of the Mammalia

- 1894 89. A Division of the Eutherian Mammals into the Mesoplacentalia and Cenoplacentalia [terms subsequently altered to Meseutheria and Ceneutheria.] Trans. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xiii, June 4, 1894, pp. 234-237. Pal. 45
- 1907 307. [Abstr.] The Reclassification of the Mammalia. [Read before N. Y. Acad. Sci., Nov. 13, 1905.] Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sciences, Vol. xvii, Pt. iii, Dec. 1907, pp. 611-613. Pal. 178
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date. Also Appendix, Age of Mammals, 1910.

Origin of the Mammalia

- 1898 133. [Abstr.] [The Origin of the Mammalia.] Ann. N. Y. Acad. Sci., Vol. xi, Jan. 10, 1898, p. 447. Pal. 62

- 1898 136. [Origin of the Mammalia.] Discussion before Amer. Soc. of Naturalists. Science, N. S., Vol. vii, No. 162, Feb. 4, 1898, pp. 176-178 Pal. 63
- 1898 146. The Origin of the Mammalia [I]. [Address before Brit. Assoc. Adv. Sci., Toronto meeting, and in full before N. Y. Acad. of Sciences, Jan. 10, 1898.] Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxii, No. 377, May, 1898, pp. 309-334. Abstr. Ann. N. Y. Acad., Vol. xi, No. 22, Jan. 18, 1899, p. 447. Pal. 71
- 1898 154. [Origin of the Mammalia.] Abstract of remarks at the International Congress of Zoologists, Cambridge, England. Science, N. S., Vol. viii, No. 194, Sept. 16, 1898, p. 358. N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 18, 1898. Pal. 77
- 1899 165. Origin of Mammals. [Opening discussion in conjunction with Professor H. G. Seeley before the International Congress of Zoologists at Cambridge, August 25, 1898.] Proc. 4th Intern. Cong. Zool., 1899, pp. 70-71, 413-419. Pal. 85
- 1900 166. [II.] Abstr. Amer. Journ. Sci., 4th Ser., Vol. vii [Whole Number, clvii], No. 38, Art. xi, Feb., 1899, pp. 92-96. See also paper on this subject in Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxiv, No. 408, Dec., 1900, pp. 943-947. Pal. 86
- 1900 191. Origin of the Mammalia, III. Occipital Condyles of Reptilian Tri-partite Type. [Presented before Section of Zoölogy, American Association for the Advancement of Science, June, 1900.] Amer. Naturalist, Vol. xxxiv, No. 408, Dec., 1900, pp. 943-947. Pal. 100
- See also subject, Vertebrate Palæontology, Progress of, titles 1893 to date.

Odontography of Mammalia

- 1887 33. The Origin of the Tritubercular Type of Mammalian Dentition. Science, Vol. x, No. 254, Dec. 16, 1887, p. 300. Pal. 13

FROM THE GREEKS TO DARWIN

IN this work the author attempts to determine the history and development of the evolution idea, and the indebtedness of modern to earlier investigators, from the first anticipations and interpretations of Nature by natural philosophers, successively among the Greeks, the theologians, the evolutionists of the eighteenth century, down to Lamarck, St. Hilaire, and Darwin. Professor Osborn's work will be welcomed by all who take an intelligent interest in the Law of Evolution.

"The book is a valuable contribution ; it will do a great deal of good in disseminating more accurate ideas of the accomplishments of the present as compared with the past, . . . The author has been more impartial than any of those who have in part anticipated him in the same line of work."—The Nation.

"Up to the present, the pre-Darwinian evolutionists have been for the most part considered singly, the claims of particular naturalists being urged often with too warm an enthusiasm. Professor Osborn has undertaken a more comprehensive work, and with well-balanced judgment assigns a place to each writer."—PROF. EDWARD B. POULTON, in Nature.

THE AGE OF MAMMALS IN EUROPE, ASIA, AND NORTH AMERICA

This book is the fruit of eleven years of special study on the part of its distinguished author, and zoölogists and palæontologists, as well as the general reader, are indebted to Professor Osborn for the great labor he has bestowed on this work, which furnishes the necessary summary and exhaustive critical analysis by a master hand of the vast and scattered literature of this subject and also a sure basis for future research.

During recent years no branch of study has made more important contributions to biology than that of the extinct mammals, through the augmented knowledge of the mammals themselves and of their relationships, and the unexpected light shed by this knowledge on the general processes of organic evolution and the problems of geographical distribution of faunas and floras. More than a century of patient study by four generations of palæontologists in Europe and America has been summed up in this comprehensive book, a mosaic from which emerges a wonderful world history.

Time and place are the main themes of the work rather than descent, which has formed the basis of all previous general treatises on the history of mammalian life, and there is presented to the reader and student a study of the birthplaces of the several kinds of animals, of their competitions, migrations and extinctions, and of the time and place of the occurrence of these great events in the earth's history.

The book is not for the palæontologist only: no zoölogist interested in mammals, birds, fishes, or reptiles can fail to find it of value; the geologist finds here an exposition of the succession of geological events in the mammal-bearing continental formations of the Tertiary and Quaternary Epochs of the Western United States; the anthropologist finds in the closing chapter on the Pleistocene Epoch a key to most of the problems which confront him as to the time of man's first appearance; the botanist may refer to it for the succession and evolution of floras.

To the general reader "The Age of Mammals" offers a fascinating account of life on the earth during the later geological periods, presenting in an interesting introductory section the principles of palæontology as illustrated by extinct mammals and certain related geological questions, and in so far as science has succeeded in piecing together the fragmentary evidence of the rocks, it gives glimpses into the remote past of the continental outlines, the climate, and vegetation of the Epochs preceding the "Age of Man."

The work is profusely illustrated by text figures of fossils, photographs of scenery in fossil localities, diagrammatic geological sections, and reproductions of the famous paintings of the probable appearance of extinct animals by the noted animal painter, Charles R. Knight. The pictures are so numerous and instructive that the casual inquirer gains much from them alone.

AGE OF MAMMALS

"Students of palæontology have awaited impatiently the past few years a promised work on extinct mammals by Professor Osborn. In his 'Age of Mammals', expectations have been more than realized."—S. W. WILLISTON, in Science, Feb. 17, 1911.

"Zoölogists, especially palæontologists, are therefore much indebted to Prof. H. F. Osborn for the great labour he has bestowed on his new work, 'The Age of Mammals', which furnishes the necessary summary by a master-hand and forms a sure basis for future research. . . . It is enlivened throughout by a succession of interesting generalizations, which are all the more valuable as having been either suggested or confirmed by the author's own researches. The peculiar feature of Prof. Osborn's book, indeed, is its stimulating freshness, and he is to be congratulated on the impulse which it is certain to give to the studies with which it deals."—A. SMITH WOODWARD, Nature, Nov. 30, 1911.

"A book of the utmost value to the student and teacher of mammalian life and likewise to the serious reader."—American Journal of Science, Feb., 1911.

"Professor Osborn has produced a book which will appeal to the learned specialist and to the thoughtful general reader as well."—Education, Boston, Jan., 1911.

"Written with clearness and vivacity. . . . Professor Osborn builds, page after page, his story-mosaic. . . . The reader will soon discover that he is a brilliant generalizer . . . . fructifying his knowledge by the exercise of a constructive imagination, and expressing his facts and ideas in a literary style, clear, vigorous, and entertaining."—The Literary Digest, Feb. 4, 1911.

"Professor Osborn stands easily first among living palæontologists for his researches upon fossil mammals. The unrivalled deposits of North America have been his hunting-ground for many years. This work must of necessity remain for a long time the great standard of our knowledge upon the Tertiary Mammalia."—Western Daily Press, Bristol, England, Jan. 9, 1911.

EVOLUTION OF MAMMALIAN MOLAR TEETH TO AND FROM THE TRIANGULAR TYPE

THIS is a history and review of the chief advances which have been made since Cope discovered in 1883 that the molar teeth of man and of nearly all other mammals, whether of simple or of complex structure, are alike derived from a triangular, or tritubercular, stage, which in turn apparently sprang from the single cone of the tooth of the reptile. It includes a treatise on the fundamental pattern and structure of the crowns of the grinding teeth of all the different orders of mammals, including man and the other primates. It is a work of great value to anatomists, anthropologists, and dentists, as well as to comparative anatomists and zoologists.

"... the most valuable contribution to mammalian odontology since that of Sir Richard Owen. . . . The theory of trituberculy was a Conception of the late Prof. Cope, but was elaborated by Prof. Osborn, who has been by far the greatest exponent of the idea."—Science.

The Origin and Evolution of Life

By HENRY FAIRFIELD OSBORN

President of the American Museum of Natural History

Author of "Men of the Old Stone Age"

In this work the author takes some of the initial steps toward a new conception of evolution and of heredity, founded upon his studies of what were probably the initial stages in the origin of life when the capture, storage, and release of energy made up the whole life of organism.

The sun, the earth, the water, the atmosphere at the time of the dawn of life are studied with the aid of the most recent discoveries in astronomy, geology, chemistry, and physics.

From this starting point the whole story of the evolution of life is traced through the wonderful discoveries of palæontology up to the time preceding the appearance of man upon the earth. This portion of the work is designed to show especially the marvelous evolution of the heredity germ.

The whole treatment from beginning to end is entirely fresh and original and is the author's most important contribution to biology.

The volume is profusely illustrated from drawings and photographs

Men of the Old Stone Age

Their Environment, Life, and Art

By

HENRY FAIRFIELD OSBORN

President of the American Museum of Natural History

THE NEANDERTHAL MAN
Reduced from illustration

“Men of the Old Stone Age” is the most important and complete work on human evolution since Darwin’s “Descent of Man.” It is the first full and authoritative presentation of what has been actually discovered up to the present time in regard to human prehistory. All the known prehuman and human stages of development for the last five hundred thousand years are described as fully and fairly as the material allows. From the time enduring remains of warlike and industrial life appear—one hundred and twenty-five thousand years ago—the author traces every step in man’s economic and social evolution; and, finally, all the stages of artistic endeavor.

The volume is, as Professor Osborn says in his Preface, “the outcome of an ever-memorable tour through the country of the Old Stone Age”—the Palæolithic caverns of Italy, France, and Spain. On this tour, which was made in 1912, the author was guided by the three distinguished archæologists of France—Émile Cartailhac, Henri Breuil, and Hugo Obermaier.

Estimates of Professor Osborn's Men of the Old Stone Age

"The whole subject has now been covered by a writer whose exhaustive and many-sided knowledge, whose long scientific training, whose natural insight, and whose singularly just and fair temper enable him to give us the first full, clear, and critical presentation and interpretation of all that has been discovered and soundly determined since Darwin wrote 'The Descent of Man.'"

—THEODORE ROOSEVELT, in The National Geographic Magazine.

MAGNON"

"A thorough piece of scientific study by an American authority of the first order."—The Outlook.

"The book is the ripe fruit of the author's life study served in a popular form that can be enjoyed by any educated reader; in another sense it is the first authoritative summary of the wonderful series of archæological discoveries made in recent years. . . . In this volume Professor Osborn has done a splendid service both for his chosen science and for the reading public."—New York Times.

"Outranks any other work on the subject hitherto published in the English language."—American Historical Review.

"Dr. Osborn's book is a masterpiece. The discussion is necessarily somewhat involved, since so many factors enter. But the stages therein are so clearly marked and the successive steps are pictured so fully in diagrams, tables, maps, and other illustrations, as well as by the text, that the attentive reader may easily keep in mind the progress made."—Literary Digest.

Huxley and Education

By Henry Fairfield Osborn

An address delivered at the opening of the college year, Columbia University, September 28, 1910, in which Professor Osborn presented the idea that the lesson of Huxley's life and the result of his own experience is that productive thinking is the chief means as well as the chief end of education, and that the natural evolution of education will be to develop this kind of thinking earlier and earlier in the life of the student.

The New Order of Sainthood

By Henry Fairfield Osborn

A brief review of the process of readjustment between the issues of two lines of thought, which are almost as old as human history; between laws derived from Nature which were discovered in the middle of the nineteenth century as to the origin of man, and traditional laws which when traced to their very beginnings we find to have been purely of human conception.
